

Saga's exclusive hotels latest news

Enjoy a holiday to one of our exclusive hotels this year, where exciting events are taking place.

Bel Jou in St Lucia will be re-opening in September after refurbishment and the addition of new garden rooms, whilst the Coastline Hotel in Malta is hosting a number of special events during a celebration week in November.

Both of our all-inclusive hotels offer outstanding value for money with so much included in the price, from excursions to evening entertainment.

Coastline Hotel QQQQ, Malta

Situated on a gentle slope overlooking picturesque Salina Bay on Malta's northern coast, the Coastline Hotel is the perfect place from which to explore the rugged scenery, coastal towns and villages and ancient ruins which make Malta such a wonderful destination.

Special celebration week departing November 23, 2009 - 7 nights from £599

To celebrate Saga's first year of partnership with the Coastline Hotel, we are planning exciting events, which include:

- A drinks reception hosted by the Chief Executive of Saga Holidays, Susan Hooper
- Four nights of live music from The Red Stripe Band
- A cruise around the Grand Harbour in Valletta

Bel Jou QQQQ, St Lucia

Boasting stunning views over the Castries from its setting atop a steep hill, the Bel Jou provides a tranquil retreat free from the distractions of more overrun resorts with many opportunities for sightseeing and sampling island life.

Grand re-opening in September 2009 - 8 nights† from £1199

Bel Jou will close briefly in July and August for refurbishment to take place. Upon the hotel's grand re-opening in September, several major improvements would have been made, which include:

- All bedrooms in the main building will have been tastefully furnished and redecorated
- Newly installed eco-friendly solar panels will be used to heat the water throughout the hotel
- New Garden Rooms will have been added to the lower ground floor of the main building, each a flat screen television, a DVD player and a private terrace.
